PART I · THE MOMENT WORTH NOTING

ONE TRADE, OBSERVED QUIETLY

A month rarely belongs to a single entry and a single exit, but the handwriting of this one is worth placing under glass for a page.

— THE MOMENT WORTH NOTING —

+$1,240

NVDA · +18.20% · 8-DAY HOLD

Entered NVDA on March 3 at $842. Closed March 11 at $879. The thesis held three sessions, then handed off to the market's own weather. The gain was observed; the decision, imperfect as always, was your own.

This is a record — not a pattern, not a plan, not a claim about tomorrow.

— a quiet record, March 2026

HOLD DURATION

8 days

Calendar days between entry and exit. The month's most common hold sat at six to ten sessions.

POSITION SIZE

3.2%

Share of month-start NAV committed to the position. Well inside the self-set 5% ceiling.

PATH VARIANCE

0.62%

Daily GKYZ estimate across the hold window. The position moved with the session, not against it.

PART II · THE MONTH'S TOP LOTS

FIVE CLOSED LOTS, IN ORDER OF P&L

A cleanly ordered reading of the month's best-realised closes. Each row's bronze dot marks the end-of-hold mark relative to entry.

TICKER	DAYS	ENTRY	EXIT	HOLD TRAJECTORY	P&L (USD)
NVDA	8d	$842.00	$879.00		+$1,240
MSFT	12d	$412.00	$428.40		+$656
AAPL	10d	$172.50	$178.20		+$342
AVGO	6d	$1,280	$1,304		+$192
005930.KS	14d	$72,000	$73,400		+$112

Five lots cleared the month's realised-P&L threshold. The top two together contributed the majority of the monthly record — a concentration noted here for transparency rather than as a pattern to lean on. Hold windows clustered between six and fourteen sessions; none ran longer than a month.

The bronze end-dot on each sparkline is the mark at exit relative to the row's own in-hold range. A single month is a small sample; this is a record, not a pattern.
